

Grand Opening After Remodeling Is Planned

LEWIS-McLARTY, Inc. has a completely new modernistic face with completion of remodeling which took nearly three months. The Department Store was redone inside and out and a grand remodeling opening has been set for Thursday.

New Edsel Is Shown in Hope

Senate Sees Action Ahead This Fall

WASHINGTON (UP) — Senate investigators today welcomed a brief respite while planning plenty of activity for the fall.

Most senators rushed out of town last week when Congress adjourned. But their committees staffed could count on little more than a temporary respite in Congress' almost continuous round of legislative hearings and investigations.

At least a half dozen Senate hearings of one sort or another are already planned for the next four months. Others will be announced later as arrangements are completed.

The House has scheduled at least 35 inquiries throughout the world between now and Jan. 1.

The biggest current investigation on Capitol Hill is the Senate Rackets Committee's investigation of union management. It is planning to resume hearings next month although no definite dates have been set.

Another round of the year number, the Senate internal security subcommittee, may hold a hearing in October. And the Senate antitrust and monopoly subcommittee, which has been looking into steel price increases and also activities of the big oil companies probably will start public hearings again the first of next month.

Mrs. Rice Heads District Nurses' Association

Dr. H. H. Holt, president of Nashville, was speaker last night at a meeting of the Prescott District Nurses Association held at Memorial Hospital here.

Some 13 members were present from Pike, Howard, Clark, Nevada and Hempstead Counties.

Mrs. Juanita Rice of Hope was elected president of the group; Mrs. Elizabeth Holt of Nashville, vice-president and Arlin Foster, Hope, secretary-treasurer.

Hidden taxes would be all right if there were only some place for the taxpayer to hide.

Priority Plan Seen of Asian Flu Vaccine

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A priority system for administering Asian flu vaccine was adopted last night by the Pulaski County Medical Society. Health authorities today indicated the plan probably would be used throughout Arkansas.

The plan, recommended by the U. S. Public Health Service and the American Hospital and Medical Assn., gives priority to:

1. Doctors, nurses and hospital personnel.
2. Essential service workers such as policemen, firemen and utility workers.
3. Respiratory and heart disease sufferers.

The vaccine will be distributed by private physicians. No plans have been announced for a government distribution program.

Dr. T. Duval Brown of Little Rock, president of the Arkansas Medical Society, and Dr. Jerome S. Levy of Little Rock, head of the county group, said a limited supply of the vaccine now is available in the state but an adequate supply should be on hand within a month.

Claims He Was Emasculated by White Men

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UP) — A 34-year-old Negro told police today he was kidnapped and emasculated by a group of white men wearing hoods and robes.

The Negro, Judge Aaron, was reported in "satisfactory" condition at the local Veterans Hospital but attendants said he had been severely beaten and was "100 per cent" emasculated.

Jefferson County sheriff's office could find no motive for the attack on Aaron, which occurred Monday night. Aaron said at least four white men in two cars seized him at the home of a Negro woman north of the community of Tarrant.

Aaron said he was forced into one of the cars by men he said were wearing white robes and hoods. However, the Negro woman told officers the men had on white shirts.

Cancels Talk on School Problems

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A scheduled speech by Supl. Virgil Blanton to a civic club here today was cancelled.

The topic was to have been: "Problems of Our Public Schools Today."

Local Eggs Used to Make Flu Vaccine

Corn Belt Hatcheries is producing fertile eggs which are being used for the manufacturing of vaccine for the Asiatic flu. The first shipment of fertile eggs left Hope last Saturday. They went to the Mallace Hy-Cross Hatchery in Doylestown, Pennsylvania, where they will be incubated for eleven days.

Baby chick embryos are used for the manufacturing of vaccines. Fertile eggs are set in incubators where they are incubated for eleven days. At the end of that period, the eggs are inoculated with the virus that causes Asiatic flu. The virus multiplies in the chick embryo inside the egg. After a few days, the second generation virus is harvested from the chick embryo. It is this second generation virus that is used to make the vaccine.

The fertile eggs being supplied by Corn Belt Hatcheries were made possible by Corn Belt's commercial egg program. Males were obtained in Texas and sent with the commercial hens about three weeks ago. According to Mrs. Freda Green, president of Corn Belt Hatcheries, the future of the program is uncertain. Corn Belt Hatcheries may ship fertile eggs for two weeks or two months depending on the amount of the vaccine needed.

"Most of the drug companies are rushing to manufacture vaccine for the Asiatic flu. No one is sure how much vaccine to make or just how badly the vaccine will actually be needed. Some drug companies have already invested several million dollars, hatchery men cooperating in the program have bought new incubators. Others such as Corn Belt Hatcheries have gone to considerable effort and expense to obtain males, test the females to good health and so on," she said.

"It has been a big job to get into production. Everyone has co-operated wonderfully well. The hatchery industry and the drug companies are doing everything possible to provide enough vaccine for everyone should it be needed," she added.

Boosters Name Kelly Walton as President

Hope Booster Club met last night in Jones Field House with 35 members present. New officers elected were: Kelly Walton, president; Jewell Moore Jr., vice president; Noah Hobbs, secretary; Dale Jones, treasurer and Donal Parker, publicity director.

Al Page, A. S. Willis and Jamie Russell were elected to a two year term on the board of directors and Roy Taylor to a one year tenure.

Royce Weisenberger, C. V. Nunn Jr. and Guy Watkins are the retiring board members. Merlin Coop, Jud Martindale and Royce Smith will serve another year on the board.

The club went on record with a vote of appreciation to past president Roy Taylor for the outstanding job he has done as the club's first president.

Club meeting night was changed to Tuesday night and the next meeting will be held Tuesday night, Sept. 10th. Charles McCordle and Austin Hulson were taken in as new members.

The club is sponsoring the "Red and White" game Thursday night in Hammond Stadium. This is, of course, the annual scrimmage game between the Bobcats and the admission price of 10c for students and 25c for adults will go to buy film to film the six home games this season. Dr. Lloyd Gierlin will again film the games this year.

All Robert boosters are urged to turn out Thursday night, Sept. 5th, and support the teams. Game time is 7:30 p. m. Booster club members will be at the main gate with season tickets if anyone wishes to purchase a book.

Lewis-McLarty Grand Opening Set Thursday

Thursday, September 5, is grand opening at Lewis-McLarty Department Store which has been in process of remodeling here for the past three months. Citizens of Hope and surrounding areas are especially invited to visit the local establishment sometime during the day.

It all started the first week in June with the official announcement by C. C. Lewis, manager, of plans to remodel the store inside and out. During this time Lewis-McLarty has tried as conveniently as possible under such circumstances to continue to serve customers of this trade area.

"We have tried our best to serve our customers under adverse conditions and are very thankful for their gracious indulgence during the long remodeling period. We now invite everyone to return for a visit and see the completed job. We are proud of our new store and in remodeling had only one thought—customers shopping convenience," said Mr. Lewis.

"Perhaps the greatest change was in the store's front. Actually two separate buildings connected only by an archway inside, the front now gives the appearance of one building. The new openback windows permit viewing the entire store from the outside.

Also new is the marquee-type aluminum awning across the front which really is new to Hope store fronts.

New fixtures were installed throughout the men and boys department. And the interior was redecorated throughout. Actually, pictures elsewhere in this edition, best reflect the many improvements.

Yerger Band Group Guests of Legion

The American Legion and Auxiliary Post No. 427, Hope, entertained the faculty, the band mothers and the P.T.A. of Yerger School System at Texarkana Dam yesterday on Labor Day. A motordance consisting of twenty cars and approximately ninety people left Yerger High School at 11 a. m.

The guests were served a delectable repast of hot fried fish, southern fried chicken, potato salad, slaw, sweet pickles, french fried potatoes, karo pie, a variety of cakes, punch and cold drinks.

The commander, Macon Wilson, the vice commander, Will V. Rath, principal of Yerger High School, the retiring commander, Clifford Cammichael and the other officers and members are to be congratulated for providing a day of fun and entertainment.

All Around Town

By The Star Staff

It happens here every so often—the old pigeon dropping game was pulled on Johnnie Williams, Negro resident of Hope R. 2 who has $834 less money than he had earlier yesterday.

Police Chief Jack Brown said a Negro man, about 50, and a girl, about 19, fleeced Williams out of his savings, using the old pocketbook finding trick. After finding a wallet full of money they talked the victim into matching it with his own money in "good faith."

Other fellows a short time later leaving the victim holding the "empty bag." This incident occurred about 10 a. m. Tuesday near Hope Post Office and was reported to the Police about 3 p. m., five hours later.

U. S. May Take Hand in State Integration

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 4 (AP) — President Eisenhower received a report from Attorney General Herbert Brownell today on the situation in Little Rock, Ark., where Negro children were turned away from a white public school by National Guard troops.

The chief executive conferred by telephone with Brownell shortly after arriving at the Newport Naval Air Base for his delayed vacation, this brought speculation that the federal government may be planning to move into the picture in some way.

Presidential News Secretary James C. Hagerty said Mr. Eisenhower instructed the attorney general to continue to keep in "close touch" with developments in Little Rock.

Hagerty said the President had not "at this time" issued any orders to Brownell on how to proceed in the face of the continued defiance of a federal court injunction to integrate Little Rock schools.

Describing the situation for newsmen, Hagerty said: "The National Guard apparently under orders from the governor stopped seven to nine Negro children from going to school this morning."

Giant Dope Ring Reported to Be Smashed

NEW YORK (AP) — A giant international narcotics smuggling and distribution ring was reported smashed today with the opening in federal court of a sealed indictment naming 40 defendants and 10 co-conspirators.

A roundup of scores of persons in the New York City area already had been reported.

Head of the gigantic operation was Harry Stromberg, 54, who was the ring's "over-all director" for more than 25 years, according to a government spokesman.

The dope syndicate imported heroin, cocaine and opium from France and other countries, and on at least one occasion it smuggled in about 50 pounds of pure heroin valued on the illicit market at $3,500,000, according to U. S. Atty. Paul W. Williams.

The indictment was returned Aug. 28, sealed and opened today in the chambers of U. S. Dist. Judge Edward Weinfeld.

The ring used many "underhanded" methods in its operations and an untold number of customs inspectors were "corrupted" by it, in agreeing to facilitate the smuggling of narcotics through New York, Williams declared.

The inspectors have since been discharged, he added. They were not identified.

The huge ring diluted, distributed and sold the narcotics at fantastic prices, after the dope's arrival here, Williams said.

He added that the narcotics were distributed in New York, Washington, D. C., Illinois, Ohio, Michigan, Pennsylvania, California, Massachusetts and other places.

Action of Faubus, Who Seldom Goes All Out on Anything, Is Startling to Many Folks

By ADREN COOPER

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The man who ordered the National Guard to stand watch over Little Rock's Central High School comes from deep in the Ozark Hills — a far removed land where a man might spend a lifetime without ever seeing a Negro.

A touch of the twang of the mountains remains in the speech of Gov. Orval Faubus, but he is far different from the average hill farmer (a term he loves to use in describing himself, and he has undergone a startling change since he opened his first gubernatorial campaign in 1954).

A schoolteacher, weekly newspaper publisher and former highway director, Faubus seldom indulges in a grammatical slip, but some metropolitan folk cringe at a few of his pronouncements — the same sounds that endear him to the common man in the Ozarks. He called the National Guard "the ne-lis-hee" in his television speech Monday night.

His action in calling out the guard to prevent racial integration at Central High was somewhat startling to political observers since he governor seldom goes all-out in any direction. For three years, he has been parrying direct questions from newsmen with increasing skill. He has developed from a sometimes stumbling speech-reader in his 1954 darkhorse days to a pretty fair operator.

Faubus is 47, under average height with a plain face and an engaging grin that convinces voters of his sincerity. He has a reputation of being a "Yankee" for his political enemies and fulfilled promises for his supporters.

His numbers among his friends influential east Arkansas businessmen and planters who are strong segregationists, but he appointed Winthrop Rockefeller to head an effective new program of industrialization—a Yankee who votes the Republican ticket and has a Negro farm manager.

He bucked tradition by upsetting one-term Gov. Francis Cherry in 1954 although Arkansas voters usually grant a second term without protest.

He defied another tradition in 1956 when he remained only slightly above lukewarm on segregation and still won without a runoff.

During the campaign, he remained a middle-of-the-roader with this stock statement: "There will be no enforced integration in the public schools of Arkansas as long as I am your governor."

He said that integration was a problem for local school boards. Last year, he said that he would not interfere with Little Rock's gradual integration plan.

Faubus again seemed to have a hand-off attitude toward segregation when four anti-integration bills came up in the 1957 Legislature, but he signed them and said that they were more moderate than those passed by other Southern states. On the other hand, he waited so long to appoint the members of the State Sovereignty Commission that he was threatened with a suit.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Lola Toombs, a son, Billy M. Toombs of Flagstaff, Arizona, a daughter, Mrs. Betty Jo Hought of Young, Arizona; two brothers, Fred A. of Almagorda, N. M. and Claude E. Toombs of Wichita, Kansas.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by Herndon-Cornelius.

Charles Oliver Toombs, aged 58, resident of Paris, Tex., died about 2:30 a. m. today in a house trailer at Oaks Camp, west of Hope city limits. Mr. Toombs was an employee of Arcos Construction Company and had been living in the trailer for several months. The company is currently rebuilding highway 67 between Hope and Prescott.

Orders to report for induction into the Armed Services September 10 have been mailed to two Hempstead men. James Herbert Bristow and Weldon A. Tillery.

Hope Auto Co. is paying the way for free parking meters today, celebrating the showing of the new Edsel. It's a fine way to show folks what it would be like to find a parking space if Hope didn't have meters.

Final Tabulation Shows 435 Dead

By The Associated Press

Final tabulation of accident reports showed today that at least 445 persons were killed in traffic accidents during the long Labor Day holiday weekend.

This toll exceeded by 25 the pre-holiday estimate of 420 made by the National Safety Council.

Although the toll surpassed last year's Labor Day toll of 435 as well it was not a record for the holiday period. The largest traffic death toll was 481 during the 70-hour Labor Day weekend in 1951.

In the holiday just concluded, an Associated Press survey covering the period from 6 p. m. Friday to midnight Monday, Sept. 2, (local time) showed an overall death toll of 686 from traffic, drowning and miscellaneous accidents. In addition to the 445 traffic deaths, there were 95 drownings and 96 deaths in a variety of accidents.

State Highway Projects to Get U. S. Aid

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The federal government will bear most of the costs in $1,000,000 worth of road projects for which bids will be taken Sept. 18 by the Arkansas Highway Commission.

The commission advertised five jobs yesterday—four of them for interchanges and overpasses, on the interstate highway system.

In the interstate program the federal government foots 90 per cent of the bills and the state provides 10 per cent of the funds.

Recently, the commission said that its fund shortage would not hold up interstate road work but would cause a slowdown on primary and secondary road projects for which the state supplies 50 or 60 per cent of costs.

The letting yesterday was the first since the commission announced in mid-July that it was suffering for money. An August letting had been dropped.

Kiwanis Told Med Center One of Finest

The University of Arkansas School of Pharmacy located in the Medical Center at Little Rock, is one of the finest in the nation, declared Dr. Stanley George Mittlestaedt in an address before the Hope Kiwanis Club yesterday.

He told of the physical assets of the school, its fine equipment, a well-qualified staff and the four-year course which the school now offers students of Arkansas.

Dr. Mittlestaedt has been dean of the school since its establishment back in 1951 and he was introduced on the program by Dr. F. C. Crow of Hope, who also introduced the senate bill in the Arkansas legislature that created the University of Arkansas School of Pharmacy.

Dr. Mittlestaedt pointed to statistics which showed approximately 105,000 persons engaged in the profession of pharmacy in the United States of which ten percent are women. In Arkansas there are about 1,800 persons engaged in pharmacy in 623 drugstores located in the state.

The basic cost per student at the School of Pharmacy at Little Rock is $320 per year plus room and board, and this compares favorably with surrounding states with the exception of Texas University which is slightly lower per student.

With an expansion of population and new hospitals, Dr. Mittlestaedt pointed to a bright field with great opportunities in the profession of pharmacy, now and in the future.

Poultry Group to Meet 8 Thursday

The Hempstead County Poultry association will meet at 8 p. m. Thursday in the Hope city hall courtroom to see a motion picture film featuring broiler production.

Directive of U. S. Judge Is Openly Defied

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — National Guardsmen, following orders of Gov. Orval Faubus, today forcibly prevented racial integration of Little Rock Central High School. The soldiers turned back a total of nine Negroes who tried to enter the 2,000-pupil all-white school.

A crowd of some 300 whites milled about in front of the school shouting such phrases as "Nigger go back where you belong" but the whites made no attempt to harm the Negroes.

Maj. Gen. Shearnant, clinger, Arkansas adjutant general, said the guardsmen, all whites, were acting on the governor's orders.

"Gov. Faubus has declared Central High off limits to Negroes," Clinger told newsmen.

An unaccompanied 15-year-old Negro girl made the first attempt to cross a line of about 200 soldiers standing shoulder to shoulder. As she repeatedly attempted to pass through the formation, an armed guardsman stepped forward and silently turned her back.

She was followed a few minutes later by a Negro boy, also 15, who walked up to the guardsmen but made no attempt to pass.

The crowd of whites, which doubled in size almost at the instant the Negro girl appeared, was noisy and abusive in its language compared to the quiet, orderly crowd of 500 which gathered in front of the high school yesterday.

Faubus said yesterday that the National Guard was not called out Monday night to maintain segregation at the school but only to keep "peace and order."

However, the Little Rock School Board interpreted the move as a block to integration and temporarily called off its federal court-approved gradual desegregation plan which had been scheduled to become effective with school opening yesterday.

Last night, Federal Judge Ronald Davies for the second time since Friday directed the board to proceed with integration at Central High.

The Negro girl, who identified herself as Elizabeth Eckford, was Continued on Page Three

A Real Brawl Results Aboard New York Bus

NEW YORK (AP)—A bat-swinging, rock-throwing brawl on a Manhattan bus landed two women and four men in police cells today on a variety of charges.

When the fight was over, a baseball bat, a rawhide leather mallet, a rubber hose filled with sand and laced at both ends, a knife and 10 large rocks were found in the around the battered bus. The bus windows were shattered by a rock barrage.

Two men were taken to a hospital—one of them a peacemaker who is in critical condition with a skull injury.

Nine frightened passengers scurried for safety through a rear window of the bus as the battle raged last night.

The melee started as an argument between two women on a street late yesterday, led to a fist fight between the husbands of the two women and eventually developed into a full-scale brawl on the bus, police said.

The victim critically injured was Gene Lowe, 24, who has been going to school to improve his eligibility rating for appointment to the police force.

Lowe was on his way to school when he saw the brawl in progress. He jumped into the bus and attempted to break up the fight. He was hit on the head.

Arrested on charges of felonious assault, violation of an antiweapon law and malicious mischief were James Brown, 24; his wife Joan, 22; Raul Angelo Pagan, 30; his wife Lydia, 19; Robert Rodriguez, 24, and Ramon Diaz, 23. Brown, Pagan, Rodriguez and Diaz also were booked on a charge of riot.

WON'T BURN THEIR BRIDGES—These two Minneapolis, Kan., men didn't burn their bridge behind them, but they might as well have, for the shape it's in. They have to park each day on one side of the Solomon River, walk across the bridge and take a truck to work. The bridge was hit by an auto and knocked askew. The men, Vince Pleschl Jr., left, and Don Charon take it all in stride.

Four Charges in Portland Vice Probe

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—The state gave up four more conspiracy charges in the Portland vice investigation yesterday.

Mayor Terry Schrunk, former District Attorney William Langley, Teamsters Union official Clyde Crosby and Sheriff's Deputy George Minichelli were freed of charges they conspired to obtain wiretaps.

The indictments had accused them of plotting illegally to get hold of tape recordings seized in a raid by sheriff's deputies on the home of Raymond Clark last year. Schrunk then was sheriff.

The recordings were used as evidence when Clark and his employer, gambler Big Jim Elkins, were convicted in federal court last spring of wiretapping.

A State Circuit Court judge dismissed the charges on motion of the state attorney general, Robert Thornton, who said the facts in the indictments did not constitute a crime. Thornton earlier said he opposed the indictments, but a grand jury returned them anyway.

An identical indictment against Oregon Journal reporter Brad Williams was dismissed earlier when his attorney attacked it in court.

Schrunk and Crosby also have been acquitted in vice trials.

Schrunk was freed of a perjury charge and Crosby of an accusa-

Ft. Smith Population Upped to 59,937

FORT SMITH (UP)—A special census completed yesterday showed an unofficial population of 59,937 and city officials estimated that over a four-year period, the figure might bring in $106,002 in state tax turn-back funds.

David Simmons, Jr., enumerator from the U.S. Census Bureau in St. Louis, said the count was 3,625 more than was shown in the last census of the city in 1955.

Simmons said the Census Bureau in Washington will release the official tally on the city's population in a few weeks.

ARKANSAN KILLED

IRVINE, Calif. (UP)—A Blytheville, Ark., soldier was killed near here today in an auto smashup. He was S-Sgt. Charlie Elmo Cleveland, son of Mr. and Mrs. J.M. Cleveland of Blytheville.

Cleveland was stationed at the El Toro Marine Base at Santa Ana, Calif.

He conspired to accept a bribe while a member of a city commission.

There remain several other indictments against Crosby and a charge that Schrunk attempted to induce two women to give false testimony about Elkins' character.

Langley was found guilty of failing to prosecute gambling laws. He has appealed, but in the interim has been removed from office.

U. S. Payroll in New Record

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Sept. 4—The United States is rallying support for a resolution to renege U. N. efforts to end Communist repression in Hungary.

Informed sources say backing for the proposal is spreading.

No one expressed opposition to the plan as a whole when Chief U.S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge outlined it at two private conferences attended by more than 60 delegations yesterday, an unofficial report said.

The United States expects to submit the resolution next week to the General Assembly special session on Hungary. Britain supports the measure.

The resolution calls on Russia and the Hungarian regime of Premier János Kadar to desist from repressive measures against the Hungarian people and to cease defying the General Assembly.

U. S. Trying to End Hungary Repression

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Byrd (D-Va.) said today that the federal government's civilian payroll exceeded 11 billion dollars last year for the first time.

Byrd, as chairman of the Joint Committee on Reduction of Non-essential Federal Expenditures, said the total for the year ended June 30 was $11,000,474,000. This compares with slightly over 10½ billions in the previous fiscal year and about 9½ billions each for the two preceding 12-month periods.

The senator said average civilian employment during the 12 months also reached a new high of 2,394,069 persons. This was an increase of about 60,000 over the previous fiscal year.

Byrd said his totals did not include 215 million dollars paid to foreign nationals, who are not on regular civilian payrolls. Most of them are employed overseas by the Defense Department.

Deborah Kerr on New Role: 'I'm Just Like Cinderella'

For one who has been restricted to wearing period costumes in "The King and I" and the singular wardrobe of a nun's habit in "Heaven Knows, Mr. Allison," her two most recent films, it's no wonder that Deborah Kerr says she feels like Cinderella in Leo McCarey's "An Affair to Remember," the romantic comedy opening Sunday at the Saenger theater.

"After wearing that one nun's habit in my last picture, here I am wearing $26,250 worth of furs, $40,000 worth of elegant gowns, Charles LeMaire designed for me, and $2500 worth of accessories in the Jerry Wald CinemaScope production for Twentieth Century-Fox," she enthused. "My gowns are of that elegantly, intricately, expensively simple type that only a wealthy woman of fashion, who can afford the luxury of a top couturier's services, can have."

The glamorous star, considered to be today's most sought-after actress, also makes her debut as a sultry, slinky, sophisticated singing siren in the "Continue," and title number of "An Affair to Remember," which also stars Cary Grant. It's all part of her characterization of a vacationing sophisticate who meets and falls in love with a notable and slightly notorious bachelor on an ocean cruise aboard the S. S. Constitution. The two make a pact to find their own way in life for six months after which they will be married if each is successful. Deborah seeks her fortune and success via the night club route.

Again on the subject of her wardrobe, Deborah said it is an absolute dream. "Floating chiffons for evening, elegant negligees, day, dinner, sports and formal gowns, and a bathing suit, that's out of this world." That bathing suit, a startling sun-yellow outfit, evoked the most prolonged wolf whistle treatment of her life during filming of the shipboard, swimming pool scenes. It prompted Marie Braselle, set hair stylist to exclaim, "I never realized what beautiful legs you have." Marie, mother of actor Keefe Braselle, was Betty Grable's hair stylist throughout Betty's career at Twentieth Century-Fox.

The wardrobe caused Deborah only one concern. "I wanted to order every one of the gowns copied for my personal wardrobe. I've ordered four already and am trying not to weaken about the rest of them. No wonder Charles LeMaire has won three Academy Awards."

INJURIES FATAL

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Omer Harris.

New Leads Found in Chicago Slaying

CHICAGO (UP)—The discovery of several new leads gave police fresh impetus today in their search for the killer of Judith Mae Anderson, 15.

About 100 policemen began a search of the Chicago and North Western Railway line when several oil drums, similar to the ones in which Judith Mac's dismembered body was found, were observed in tool sheds along the right of way.

Police Commissioner Timothy O'Connor enlisted the aid of 16,000 public school teachers and 440,000 pupils in the search for clues to the gruesome killing.

The police commissioner's appeal was relayed by Schools Supt. Benjamin C. Willis in a television and radio address to classrooms on the first day of school Tuesday.

"The police department has always given the schools the utmost cooperation and we in turn must do the same," Willis said. "Authorities also revealed they are seeking two young men, one of them a former medical student. Police believe the slayer had some knowledge of anatomy because of the expert way in which the victim's body was dissected."

Porks Scrimmage Next Saturday

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (UP)—Razorback Coach Jack Mitchell has scheduled the first scrimmage of the fall football season at the University of Arkansas for Saturday.

Mitchell yesterday gave his Porkers a 2-hour workout which put the emphasis on downfield blocking and pass defense.

There was both good and bad news concerning player injuries. Tackle Richard Bennett of Little Rock, who has a recurring knee ailment, has responded to treatment and will be ready for contact work Monday.

But the twisted ankle of crack guard Jerry Ford has proved more serious than expected and the Lake Village player will lose out on all practice sessions—and maybe the first game Sept. 21 against Oklahoma State.

Mitchell said he would know more about the makeup of his first three units after Saturday's scrimmage.

This is the EDSEL

"Today a remarkable new automobile joins the Ford family of fine cars"

There has never been a car like the Edsel. It is a magnificent automobile. Behind it lie all the resources of Ford Motor Company, all of the experience and engineering skill. The results: The Edsel is powered by the newest V-8 engines in the industry—the Edsel 400 and the Edsel 475. Specifications: 400 and 475 foot-pounds of torque; 303 and 345 horsepower; 10.5 to 1 compression ratio. The Edsel's big, safer brakes do not need periodic tightening.

They adjust themselves automatically in the course of your day-to-day driving.

The Edsel shifts itself. With Teletouch Drive, you just touch a button on the steering wheel hub, Teletouch Drive does the rest—smoothly, surely, electrically.

The Edsel's list of available new features includes contour seats; a warning light that flashes when you exceed your preset speed limit; another that flashes when oil is one quart low; a release that lets you open the luggage compartment from the driver's seat. There are many things that make the Edsel different from any other car you have driven. More exciting, more sure, more safe.

What does an Edsel cost? Prices range from just above the lowest to just below the highest. You can afford an Edsel. And you can choose from four series, 18 models. Stop in soon at your Edsel Dealer to see and drive the newest car in the world: the Edsel.

engulfed by whites as she attempted to pass through the guardmen. They shouted "Nigger go back where you belong" and "Nigger go back to Africa." One muttered, "let her go, she's being paid for it."

There were no attempts to harm the Negro girl. Moments later a Negro boy, who said he was Terrance Roberts, 15, walked up to the guardmen and stood quietly, making no attempt to pass.

A white youth lunged at him and a guardman reacted quickly. The soldier grabbed the white youth, searched him for weapons and thrust him back into the milling crowd.

Farther down the line, seven Negro students accompanied by a few Negro adults, asked a National Guard officer to allow them in the school. Passage was again denied.

The Negro girl, who refused to answer newsmen's questions except to identify herself, sat on a bench across the street from the school. After soldiers had dispersed a crowd of 50 whites who had gathered about her, she sobbed briefly.

The crowd became aroused when a white woman approached the girl in a friendly manner. The white woman and the Negro girl boarded a bus together. The other Negroes also left about 30 minutes after they had arrived and classes, containing only white students, began inside Central High.

Fortunately, Families Not at Home

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Almost any other Tuesday at 5 p.m., the Charles Schneiders and Raymond Meyers would have been at home.

Yesterday a Navy jet fighter smashed into their homes at that hour in suburban Berkeley, leaving them in charred ruins.

The pilot, Lt. John R. Renshaw, Centerville, Md., appeared to be shooting for an open space a block west of the Meyer home.

Instead his burning plane hit what may have been the only two unoccupied homes in the area. Renshaw was killed.

Schneider, operator of a home improvement firm, said his wife Ruth would be busy getting supper almost any other Tuesday. Their children, Linda, 8, Charles, 5, and Richard, 3 1/2 months would be at home.

But it was the first day of school and his wife had picked out the children's best clothes. She told her husband at his office: "If I think when the kids come home, they'll be all dressed up, so I think we'll go over to mother's. You can pick us up there."

They were at the home of Mrs. Schneider's mother, Mrs. Lorena Stevens, in suburban Jennings when the plane ripped through the Meyer home and into their six-room frame house, leaving only a few upright timbers and four drawers of untouched clothing in a scorched dresser. Schneider was still at his office.

Almost any other Tuesday, Raymond Meyer would be in the shower bathing after a day on a construction job.

But yesterday he was kept 10 few minutes enroute to pick up his wife at work. He made up a few more minutes on the home stretch.

They were just two blocks away when the plane hit. Harry Fields, a neighbor, said the Meyers' house "just disappeared."

"By the time I could get to the door, which was four or five seconds, the second house was in flames," he said.

The plane apparently developed trouble immediately after takeoff from Lambert-St. Louis Airport a mile from Berkeley, and was on fire before the crash.

Lt. Renshaw, stationed at the Naval Air Test Center at Patuxent River, Md., had made the trip here to pick up some test equipment.

Boxing Expression

The expression "to throw in the sponge" originated in the boxing field. At one time, if a fighter was unable to begin the next round, his second signaled the end of the bout by tossing his sponge into the ring.

The girl who wears glasses has to develop real skill in applying eye make-up. For instance, glasses tend to emphasize rings under the eyes. This girl uses make-up to cover them, blending it carefully (left) with a cotton swab. She uses eye shadow (center) in a soft shade, avoiding bright blue, green, silver and gold. She applies mascara (right) using the side of the brush rather than the tip. In applying her eye make-up, she keeps her glasses on both to know what the finished effect will be and to enable herself to see what she's doing. She likes a clean brow line to avoid a cluttered effect.

DOROTHY DIX

Adoptive Couples Offer Haven to Oldsters, Too

Dear Dorothy Dix: We are a couple who do not have children, and would dearly love to adopt one. We're told it takes time, and we are afraid that by the time a youngster is available, we'll be beyond the accepted age for adoptive parents. We're considering the idea of taking a young girl in and putting her through college. Would you have any suggestions as to how this could be accomplished?

MR. AND MRS. T. L.

Dear Folks: The reason that there is such a scarcity of adoptable children is that everyone with a lonely spot in the house wants a cuddlesome baby. By concentrating hope on babies, people miss out on all the other folks who need love, a home, security. There are old people, handicapped children, young girls desperately in need of a helping hand and youngsters from broken homes; they all need a temporary haven. Why aren't any of these ever considered when open hearts go seeking someone to shelter?

While your idea of taking a girl to educate is a fine one, there are people who have more need of a home. A girl accepted on your terms will unquestionably be interested in the education first. That will be her goal, and she probably won't have much time for you.

Your pastor or local welfare agency should be approached for contacts in any of these fields. Be sure that anyone — girl or oldster — comes to you with official recommendation. In a step as important as this, confidence can be misplaced easily.

Dear Dorothy Dix: My boy friend and I are recent high-school graduates. We've been working in a store this summer, and will go on to college in the fall. I would like to get him a watch for his birthday but my sister says I'm too young to spend so much on a gift. It would amount to $35.

MADELINE

Dear Madeline: Sister is right. Such an expensive gift would be embarrassing to the boy. Keep the gift in the record or book class.

Dear Dorothy Dix: Is it all right to go steady with two boys at one time?

DOLLY

Dear Dolly: Can two objects simultaneously occupy the same space? You propose a contradiction in terms. Either you go steady with one boy or you date several.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I've been going with a very wonderful girl, but suddenly I'm confronted with a problem that may mean the end of everything between us. Another girl of my acquaintance is pregnant, and I may be responsible although she admits she's not sure. Should I marry the girl in trouble or try to win the other girl whom I love?

DANNY

Dear Dan: The little lass who isn't sure who is the father of her child may not let you off so easily. The decision may not be yours to make. Danny. Talk this over with your pastor, and tell the girl you love what your problem is. This is more considerate than leaving her dangling.

Van Buren School Takes in 23 Negroes

VAN BUREN (UP)—Van Buren's previously all-white high school was integrated yesterday as 23 Negroes reported for the first day of school.

The school, under a Federal court order to integrate, has desegregated the top three classes of high school.

Each year, another grade will be integrated until the entire system is mixed. Only one Negro senior, a girl, reported.

Meanwhile, a Ozark, which is starting a voluntary plan of integration, only three Negroes attended yesterday.

A For Smith, Superintendent Chris D. Corbin said only one Negro child was scheduled to begin classwork in the first grade today. The first grade is the only class being integrated this year.

Integration Has Troubles Elsewhere

From Our Wife Services

An angry crowd of white students attacked a Negro student at Charlotte, N. C. today as she left her first class at a previously all-white school.

But elsewhere in the South, except at Little Rock, integration in the classrooms proceeded quietly, with little or no violence.

Four Negro students were to have attended four separate schools at Charlotte today under the school board's voluntary integration program. Three students did report for classes. The fourth telephoned she would be on hand tomorrow.

The beginning of integration went calmly at Charlotte, as it had yesterday at Greensboro, N. C., with some heckling but no attempt at interference.

But when Dorothy Geraldine Counts, 16, attempted to leave the Harding High school, she was greeted by a hail of stones and missiles from a crowd of several hundred jeering white students.

The crowd jeered, many threw rocks and sticks and many spat upon her.

City police, who had been on the scene since the girl entered school earlier this morning, converged on the mob and rescued the student.

The tenth grade pupil, assigned to the school under North Carolina's pupil placement law under a planned token integration program, was struck by a stick hurled by another 10th grade pupil. Police took student Liston Flowers into custody.

There were no adults in the crowd.

Two other Negro students were heckled by smaller crowds of white students as they entered and left two other Charlotte schools for the abbreviated session today.

Gustavus Roberts was accompanied to and from Central high

One Negro Enters Ft. Smith School

FORT SMITH (AP)—Integration in public schools began here for the first time as a lone Negro first-grade boy attended classes at a previously all-white school.

Supt. Chris Corbin said that 11 other Negroes who were "eligible" to attend white schools did not enroll. Corbin said that he assumed that the others had gone to a Negro school.

There have been no incidents in Fort Smith which has plans for gradual integration.

The boy who attended classes with whites today was Charles Ed-school by his father and his younger sister. Giraud Roberts went to Piedmont junior high school accompanied by his mother.

Charlotte police had taken precautions against violence, but did not expect it.

Eighty More Buried in Jamaica Disaster

By B. E. O. WILLIAMS
KINGSTON, Jamaica (AP)—Eighty more victims of one of history's worst railroad disasters will be buried in private funerals in Kingston today.

A special train brought their bodies to this Caribbean capital city yesterday as 80 others were being covered with rain-fretted red earth at a mass grave near the train's wreckage, 60 miles from here.

The unofficial count of those killed Sunday night, when a holiday excursion train broke apart on a steep curve, has risen to 103. Other bodies are believed to remain in the wreckage at Kendal station, five miles from the mountain mining village of Mandeville. Driving tropical rains hampered the burials and the search of the wreckage.

Fans Can See Bobcats in Action Thursday Night

Hope football fans will get a chance to see the 1957 "Bobcats" in action Thursday night in Hempstead. The coaches will head three teams in a game like scrimmage with play to start at 7:30 p.m.

Up to now, the squad has been working on fundamental football and conditioning. Head coach Leon Turpin pointed out yesterday to the press and last night to the Hope Booster Club that the better condition a player is in, the more chance the Bobcats have of winning and the less chance the player has of getting injured. So far, there have been any serious injuries.

The squad started with 44 players and has leveled off to 35, however, some of the boys have been working and are expected to join the team when school starts. There is a team, equipment and game uniform for any sophomore or Junior Varsity player.

Commenting on some of the players, Turpin said that Lynn Wiggins at center was really shining and showing signs of leadership which every team has to have; Tommy Polk at fullback was able to run more and show more power than at quarterback; the ends are leading the way in hustling with Jerry Franks, Jimmy May, Bill Hairr, Gary Formby and Lynn Montgomery; the tackles were showing up good with Royce Weisenberger, Oliver Adams, Jr., Jimmy Chambers, and Jerry Thurman; the guards had lots of pep with Jimmy Porterfield, Jack King, Winston Duke and Bob Emby. Roy Rowe is doing fine at center with Wiggins. The team has three starting

THE CANVAS DAGGER by HELEN REILLY

...THE STORY: In spite of warnings, Sarah Casement is drawn irresistibly into investigating the death of Grant Melville, a painter WHO FLE - or was pushed - from his studio window. She has gone to Cape Cod, where she first saw Melville. Sarah's Aunt Grace is not at home, but Sarah will live in her cottage.

CHAPTER IX

The sound had come from inside the house. It was like the impact of a huge fist. The walls shook. The two women looked at each other, white-faced. They were both terrified. Their terror as instinctive, unreasoning, but it passed.

Carlotta was the first to recover. She jumped to her feet. "The front door," she exclaimed.

Sarah followed Carlotta across the bedroom to the tiny entrance hall. The door there was swinging on its hinges.

Carlotta shut it, working with the lock until it caught. "We had a party last week and I sent Tim Brock over to borrow Grace's big punch bowl. He must have left the door unlatched when he went out."

Sarah was looking up the steep flight of steps painted blue and confined by off-white walls that were hung with etchings of London during the blitz. There was nothing in sight, nothing alarming, no sound. . . and yet she felt it, surely and definitely. A presence. Someone or something near. Something that was just beyond the reach of her eyes and ears.

And then whatever it was withdrew. If there had been anything before Carlotta left she insisted on going upstairs and looking through the bedrooms. There was, of course, no one there and nothing out of order. It was after she had gone that Sarah discovered what was missing from her bedroom. It was the white blanket striped with black, a lovely angora throw Grace had picked up in Scotland. It always lay in a neat roll at the bottom of the bed. It wasn't there now.

The angora throw wasn't in the pink room either.

Turning away from the shelves cupering nicely.

Coming and Going
Mr. and Mrs. Chester H. Yerger have returned home from Oakland, and Berkeley, California where they spent their vacation with their children and friends.

Mrs. E. J. Yerger and daughter, Miss Myrtle Yerger, have returned home from their vacation in Chicago where they visited Mrs. Yerger's daughter, Mrs. James L. Horace and family and St. Louis, where they visited Mrs. Yerger's sister.

James W. Johnson has returned to Pine Bluff where he is a student at A. M. & N. College, after having spent his vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Johnson.

Miss Ruby Dell Jenkins of Battle Creek, Mich. is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jenkins of Emmet and her sister, Mrs. Wallace Johnson and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmore Johnson of Senatobia, Miss. Mrs. Lucille Wilby of Edwardsville, Va. Zelus Brown and family of Fort Smith, Ark. and Sevier Johnson of Flint, Mich. have returned to their homes after spending two weeks with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Johnson of McCaskill.

"MEET McCRAW" - Frank Lovejoy, the "McCraw" of television's private eye series, says he's turned to TV because that's where the hiring is. He says more people recognize him now than when he played only in movie parts.

with an armful of sheets, Sarah stopped moving. The window in the west wall was partly obscured by vines. Above the vines a dark shape as silhouetted against the last of the light. The dark shape was a man. The man was crouched forward, peering into the tiny room. His face was unrecognizable, a pale, featureless blur.

Sarah's mouth went dry. Everything as once fell into place. The man was a vagrant. He had been living in the house, sitting in the chairs, moving them around. When she and Carlotta came in without warning he had hidden upstairs, then he had made his escape by way of the front door, leaving it unlatched behind him. He was the one who had taken the angora throw. There was something malign, threatening, about his crouched figure. He might be a criminal, hiding out in an empty house, might be covering his life in a gun. There was nothing between them but a frail barrier of glass.

The man stood up straight. He raised a hand; Sarah drew a long shaky breath and collapsed against the shelves, weak with astonishment. The man was Tom Gillespie.

They met on the terrace outside of the ping-pong room at the back of the house.

"What are you doing in Cornwall?" Sarah demanded.

"Just what I was about to ask you," Tom Gillespie said.

He looked different in a plaid shirt open at the throat, a strong pillar-like throat, and corduroys suited into hunching boots. There was no recognition in his voice or manner of that kiss he had given her the night before.

It was said out and they went inside and he told her about it over highballs in front of the living-room fire. He said that after he left Sarah the night before he and Mrs. Melville had had a talk over the phone and Mrs. Melville had suggested the trip. Grant Melville had a cottage up in the hills to which he had been coming for years to paint, and she thought it might be a good starting place. He had a lot of friends and acquaintances here, including his first wife, who had also married again - a Mrs. Satterlee.

"Oh," Sarah said. "I know the Satterlees, at least I've met them about. Pleasant people - they have an art school up the road. They're only here in the summer, they run another school somewhere on the Keys in winter."

Tom Gillespie had flown to Boston that morning and then across the bay to Provincetown, where he had hired a car - which explained his early arrival.

Tom Gillespie liked it. "These old places are delightful - mind if I look around?"

She wasn't going to have a solitary evening, and he didn't have a chance to do more than saunter into her bedroom and admire the fireplace - "Pre-Revolutionary brick you've got here" - and the paneling - "this is the real McCoy" - when there was a rap on the kitchen door and Steven Task walked in.

"No man could move as fast or sit as still or repress into thought more deeply than Steven. Whatever he did he did thoroughly and completely."

"Sarah," he gave her a hug, kissed the tip of her nose, put his hands on her shoulders, and held her off a smile of pleasure on his face. Wide forehead, com-

Spahn Becomes Shutout King of Baseball

By ED WILKS
Of The Associated Press

Wonderful Warren Spahn, now the National League's all-time shutout king, has the edge for the Pitcher of the Year award today while right-hander Jack Sanford, Philadelphia's latecomer, likely will have to be satisfied with the league's rookie citation.

Spahn, the 36-year-old master of Milwaukee's first-place Braves, moved ahead of Sanford and left-hander Billy Pierce of the Chicago White Sox and gained his 41st career shutout yesterday in an 8-0 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

It was Spahn's 18th victory, matching Pierce for the major league lead, and kept the easy-running Braves 8 1/2 games ahead of the second-place St. Louis Cardinals, who clobbered Cincinnati 14-4.

Sanford, a 28-year-old rookie, missed a big bid to keep pace in victories when he was lifted for an eighth-inning pinchhitter as the Phils took a 12-inning, 3-2 victory over Brooklyn.

In the American League, New York's "struggling" Yankees regained a 5 1/2-game lead with a 2-0 victory at Baltimore while Detroit chilled the second-place White Sox 3-2 in 12 innings. Those were the only AL games scheduled.

The New York Giants defeated Pittsburgh 6-5 in 12 in the other NL game.

Spahn got past the pesky seventh-place Cubs with a six-hitter, striking out five and walking only one. Southpaw Dick Littlefield matched Spahn's whitewash job for six frames, then dropped his third in a five-run seventh with three of the scores unearned. Hank Aaron then made it a romp with his 39th homer, good for three runs, in the eighth.

The NL record for career shutouts was set at 90 by Grover Cleveland Alexander.

Sanford was tagged for both the Brooklyn runs and the three meager hits the Dodgers managed two by Gil Hodges, Dick Farrell and Bob Miller, who pitched the 12th, no-hit the brooks over the last five with Farrell winning his seventh.

The Phils had only three hits for eight, but Harry Anderson then junked Don Drysdale's bid for a second consecutive shutout with a two-run, two-out homer in the ninth that tied it. Ex-Dodger Chico Fernandez tripled and Willie Jones, batting for Farrell, hit a long fly for the clincher.

It was a base-running boner that saved it for the Phils as Charlie Neal missed third and was tagged out after apparently scoring on his RBI double in the seventh that made it 2-0.

The Cardinals rapped loser Joe Nuxhall and five relievers for 16 hits. They scored eight, two on Del Enis' 18th homer, in the first two frames. Wilmer Mizell, who doubled home three runs, was tagged for solo home runs by Pete Whisenant and Smokey Burgess, but hung on with a 10-hitter.

Bill Skowron's bat won for the Yankees. He had two of their three hits, one his 17th home run, over the first seven against loser Billy O'Dell, then added an RBI single in the ninth off Billy Loes. Tom Sturdivant won his 18th, but needed ninth-inning relief from Sal Maglie, who retired the side in his Yankee debut.

Mickey Mantle was 0-for-4, losing five points for a 370 average in his last race with Ted Williams. The Boston thumper, hitting .371, will miss the two-game series opener at Yankee Stadium tonight because of a virus infection.

Al Kaline thumped the White Sox, swatting his 21st home run to lead off the 11th. He also singled home a run in the first off Bob (No-Hit) Keegan, Gerry Staley lost in relief for a 5-1 record. Billy Hoft won his seventh with an eight-hitter, giving up homers to Larry Doby and Wat Drope.

Home runs by Willie Mays, Danny O'Connell and Valmy Thomas brought the Giants a 5-all tie, then Ray Jobsonki lofted a sacrifice fly after two walks and an error had loaded the bases.

Sticks to Ruling Against the IBC

NEW YORK (UP) - Federal Judge Sylvester J. Ryan has refused to set aside his ruling of July 2 that the International Boxing Club monopolized championship boxing in violation of the anti-trust law.

Judge Ryan Tuesday rejected a motion by the IBC asking that he set aside his previous judgment, that certain facts and conclusions of law be set aside, and that admission of new testimony be allowed.

The judge ruled that the IBC request actually was "in effect" a request for a "new trial."

Judge Ryan pointed out that "all hearings on remedies have long since been terminated" and said the request had to be denied in the absence of "obvious" and "manifest" error. He added that the IBC could seek remedy either before an appeals court or in an application for modification of its judgment.

Impressive fight record, 50-0, 100 fans are expected to pack the area.

The Utah fighter is expected to tip the scales at 150 pounds, while his opponent expects to weigh in at 160.

Score Hopes to Hurl Again This Month

CLEVELAND (AP) - Southpaw Herb Score says he will pitch again "as soon as I think my depth perception is good enough" this month, I hope.

It will be four months on Saturday since the Cleveland Indians' star was felled by a liner of the bat of Gil McDougald in a night game here with the New York Yankees, the ball hit him flush in the right eye and caused the retina to swell.

"I feel alright, and I can see pretty well," Score said last night. "In fact, I can see a lot better than I could a few months ago. But when I am on the mound I have trouble picking up the ball as soon as it leaves the bat. Sometimes I reach for it, and it isn't there."

Score said he believes this problem will be solved. His eye specialist has told him it is a temporary condition.

Some persons want Score to wait until next spring to pitch, but he differs.

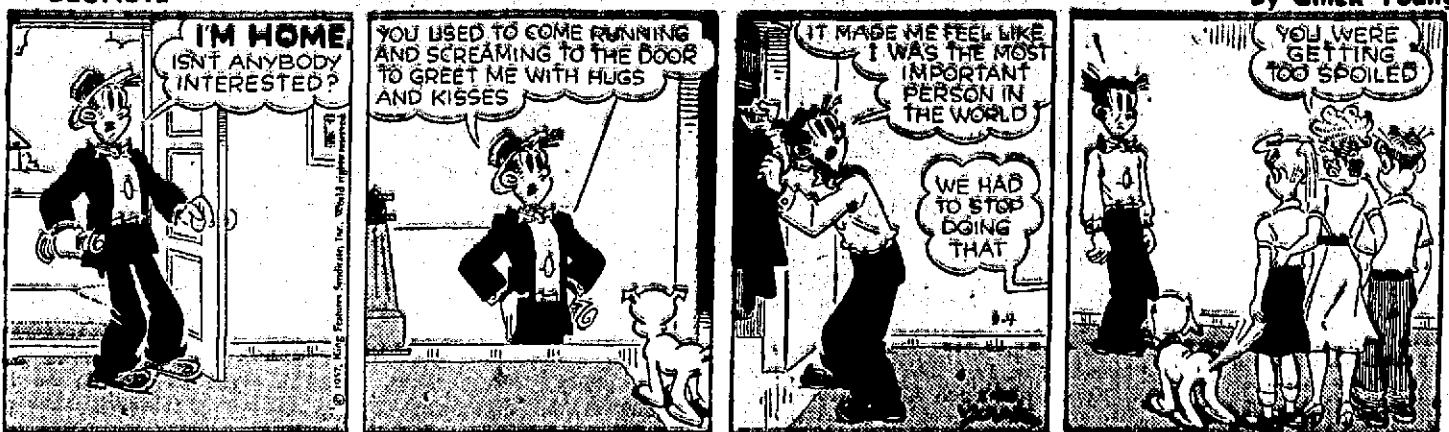

"I'd like to pitch before the season ends so that I don't have to spend the whole winter worrying. I want to regain my confidence as soon as I can."

Lockheed Puts New Jet Star Through Test

By JOHN BECKLER
EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—Eight months ago Lockheed Aircraft Co. directors nodded approvingly at some preliminary drawings of a small jet transport. Today the plane, named Jet Star tests its shiny wings in flight.

No one is claiming any records for turning out an airplane in eight months from drawing board to flight line, but it is a performance of note in the fiercely competitive aircraft industry.

Normally it takes anywhere from two to three years to transform a sketch of a new aircraft design into a modern airplane.

Clarence L. Kelly Johnson, Lockheed's vice president for heads the company's 230-man Special Projects Department—and the more special the project the better this 47-year-old engineering whiz likes it.

Later in World War II Special Projects turned out the prototype of the F80 Shooting Star in just 143 days. But the much larger Jet Star, a swept-wing, 300-m.p.h. 10-passenger plane, may well be the group's most remarkable achievement.

The Air Force had indicated an interest in a small, swift jet transport that could be used for top-priority military transportation. Lockheed, first company in a position to offer one, also plans to offer the Jet Star to private firms as a transport for company executives.

Johnson was so sure of his crew's ability to put the plane together quickly that the day after that directors meeting eight months ago he posted a sign in the Special Projects area. It read: "First flight, 9 a.m., Sept. 4, 1957, 241 days left."

A worker from another department wandered into the hangar one day, expecting to see fireless crows swarming in a like units over the JetStar. He found a group of silent men sitting on the floor munching sandwiches.

Illinois Couple Pay Hope Short Visit

"Do you folks know where you are?" asked Bill Roulton co-chairman of the Hope Chamber of Commerce Tourist Committee, of Mr. and Mrs. B. Springborn, the tourist guests of the week, after they had been stopped by the Chief of Police in one of the City Police cars.

"Well, no we are not sure where we are or what we have done," said Mrs. Springborn, Mr. Roulton, W. R. Tate and Chief of Police Jack Brown soon put their minds at ease when they explained the Hope Tourist program had invited them to be the guests of the week. Mr. and Mrs. Springborn, whose home is in Downers Point, Ill., were returning home after a vacation in New Orleans, La., Corpus Christi, San Antonio, Dallas and other Texas points. Mr. Springborn is in the insurance business in his home town and has represented Prudential Life Insurance Company for the past 20 years.

Other local residents who participated in the program for this week were Jimmy Miller with Reese-Miller City Service Station who serviced the car, James Gaines with Hefner & Gaines, Dodge - Plymouth dealers, who furnished a new Plymouth to bring the guests into town, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Smith of the Barlow Hotel who furnished a room for the guests to freshen up and a delicious Southern Fried Chicken Dinner, John Harrie, with Shipley Studio who took the pictures and Mr. and Mrs. Paul McClellan, representing the Rose Garden Club and serving as host and hostesses.

After an interview, at the Chamber of Commerce office by Curt Avery of Radio Station KXAR, the guests were presented with a number of gifts made available by the following business firms and persons: Hope Basket Company, Salt Hickory Company, Southwest Wood Products Company, Bruner Ivory Handle Company, Hickory Aroma Company, Mrs. John Keck, Mr. O. L. Rosenbaum and Mr. John Henderson. The latter two gentlemen furnished watermelon for the occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. Springborn were most appreciative of the hospitality shown them and stated that they would always have a warm spot in their heart for the people of Hope.

This brings to a close another most successful summer Tourist Program conducted by the Tourist Committee of the Hope Chamber of Commerce. During this eight week period visitors from seven different states have had a sample of Hope, Arkansas Hospitality, and some seventy five local residents have had an opportunity to work in this program of extending hospitality. The officers and Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce express their sincere appreciation to all of those who participated in this worthwhile program.

Injuries Biggest Worry for Casey

By GEORGE BOWEN
BALTIMORE (AP)—Manager Casey Stengel's biggest worry about whether the New York Yankees can hold their 3½ game lead in the American League seems to be injuries to his team.

"If hat fella is all right, well—, if he isn't we're in a bad plight."

The "fella" he pointed to in the batting practice cage was Mickey Mantle.

Mantle isn't "all right" and it's showing in the Yankee performance. The great hitting outfielder has been suffering with aching shins since a series in Kansas City Aug. 20-22. The Yankees have lost seven of their last 13 games although giving no ground to the Chicago White Sox.

Stengel has no fear of the Sox head to head. Even with Mantle ailing, the Yanks beat them three straight games about a week ago.

"They beat me one series by fifty-pating the ball around the infield," he said. "They have nothing much except speed. It seems every time you look up they have a run going from first to third. They beat us one game this season by just hitting the ball in front of the plate."

Miss Fincher, Mr. Webb Are Married Saturday

The wedding of Miss Patsy Sue Fincher and James Phillip Webb took place at 6 p.m. Saturday in the First Baptist Church with Rev. Hugh Cantrell officiating. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arl Fincher, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Webb.

Gold foliage with bronze and gold chrysanthemums, ivy and candelabra decorated the church. Mrs. Coy Branum, organist, accompanied Miss Amelia Harrell of Prescott who sang.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white Chantilly lace over satin with a scalloped sabrina neckline and short shirred sleeves. Her skirt of tulle and lace ended in a chapel train. A veil of illusion was attached to a crown of pearls and rhinestones. She carried a bouquet of tuberoses centered with an orchid on a white Bible.

Mrs. Richard White, sister of the bridegroom, was matron of honor. She wore a bronze crystal-ette sheath with a pleated flounce and a matching headpiece. She carried a gold chrysanthemum nosegay. Miss Liz Beasley and Miss Joy Arrington bridesmaids, and Miss Joan Fincher, junior bridesmaid, wore gold crystal-ette dresses trimmed with gold velvet and carried bronze chrysanthemum nosegays.

Anita Beth Lambert of Prescott, flower girl, wore a gold crystal-ette and satin basket of white rose petals.

Joe Davis served as best man and ushers were Richard White, Don Smith, Franklin Spooner and Bobby Fincher, brother of the bride.

Mrs. Hugh Cantrell greeted the guests at the reception held in the church parlor. Mrs. Jimmy Rogers was in charge of the bride's book. Assisting were Mrs. Howell Fincher, Miss Selma Sittig, Miss Gina Grayson and Miss Ruth Ellen Davis.

For travel the bride wore a black sheath and cape with white accessories and an orchid corsage.

After a trip to New Orleans, La. the couple will be at home in Norman, Okla., where the bridegroom will attend the University of Oklahoma.

Patience Urged by Ike on Integration

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower has been something less than vigorous in supporting federal judges who ordered public schools integration in the South and then ran into opposition. Patience has been his motto.

Patience, in fact, has been one of his most persistent policies toward problems at home and abroad. He's been using it for all it's worth toward the problems arising from attempts at integration.

Eisenhower, who carefully avoids saying anything to offend Southerners, except for criticizing "extremists on both sides," has never yet said publicly he approves the Supreme Court's ban on school segregation.

He used his patience again yesterday when Arkansas Gov. Orval Faubus blocked a federal court order to integrate Little Rock's Central High School by ringing it with National Guardsmen.

Faubus denied he was defying the court and said he called out the troops to keep peace and order. But he also said his action could possibly develop into a "Southwide test."

But the school board — which had been ordered by Federal Dist. Judge Ronald N. Davies to integrate the school—interpreted Faubus's use of troops as an effort to prevent integration and ordered would-be Negro students to stay away.

Only a week ago Faubus had asked a state judge to prevent integration at Central High.

Eisenhower was asked about all this at his news conference yesterday. He said the Justice Department was investigating and "the next decision will have to be by the lawyers and jurists."

Thus Eisenhower once again avoided becoming personally involved although this may have been cold comfort to Judge Davies, who had to stand by and see his integration order stymied.

But the judge appeared capable of standing on his own two feet. Since the school board, because of the troops, had stopped integration public school segregation. "I am for moderation," he has said, "but I am for progress." And there has been progress toward integration. Whether there would be much more if he spoke out forcefully for integration is so far one of the unknowns of history.

He used his patience again yesterday when Arkansas Gov. Orval Faubus blocked a federal court order to integrate Little Rock's Central High School by ringing it with National Guardsmen.

Faubus denied he was defying the court and said he called out the troops to keep peace and order. But he also said his action could possibly develop into a "Southwide test."

But the school board — which had been ordered by Federal Dist. Judge Ronald N. Davies to integrate the school—interpreted Faubus's use of troops as an effort to prevent integration and ordered would-be Negro students to stay away.

Only a week ago Faubus had asked a state judge to prevent integration at Central High.

Eisenhower was asked about all this at his news conference yesterday. He said the Justice Department was investigating and "the next decision will have to be by the lawyers and jurists."

Thus Eisenhower once again avoided becoming personally involved although this may have been cold comfort to Judge Davies, who had to stand by and see his integration order stymied.

But the judge appeared capable of standing on his own two feet. Since the school board, because of the troops, had stopped integration it faced the possibility of being found in contempt of the court's order to integrate.

So, the board appealed to the judge last night. The judge promptly called the governor's hand — by ordering the board to go ahead and register the Negroes.

This left the next move up to the governor who now, if the troops in any way prevented Negro registration, could find himself in defiance of the federal government and possibly in contempt of court.

What would Eisenhower do in a case like that? He wasn't asked about it yesterday. But a year ago he went as far as he has ever gone in explaining what he would do if a court were acted.

He didn't actually explain what he'd do. He simply said U. S. marshals could serve warrants, but how the marshals could serve a governor surrounded by troops—or force him to appear in court—is a problem Eisenhower hasn't had to face yet.

Just a year ago the then Texas governor, Allan Shivers, used Texas Rangers at a school in Allenfield, Tex., where mobs, protesting a court order for integration, there, assembled to keep Negroes away.

Asked about the problem at his news conference on Sept. 5, 1955, Eisenhower said in part: "Until states show their humility or their refusal to grapple with this question mob action that prevents integration properly, which they haven't yet, we've better be very careful about moving in and exercising police powers."

The mob action in Mansfield, apparently was successful. Negroes weren't able to register then and now, a year later, none is registered at the school. Eisenhower has said the Supreme Court's word is law and he's bound to uphold the law.

But when asked that same day, Sept. 5, a year ago, if he endorsed the court's anti-segregation ruling, Eisenhower said, "I think it makes no difference whether or not I endorse it." He said he must uphold the Constitution.

People who can easily pay any price say:

"Pay more... what for? Ford's the buy!"

Why? Because this 1957 Ford gives you the advanced features, the solid ride, the effortless handling that you once expected to find only in expensive cars. And when it comes to looks, where in all the world can you find fresher styling than in the sculptured-in-steel lines of this new Ford?

Ford's superiority is evident in many places. In the vital rear axle, the pinion gear that turns the rear wheels is straddle-mounted... supported between two anti-friction bearings instead of being "overhung" from a single bearing. This makes operation quieter, smoother and longer-lasting. It's a feature that Ford shares with only one other car maker—Rolls Royce.

Or consider Ford's famous V-8 engine. No other manufacturer in the industry today electronically balances every V-8 engine, while operating under its own power, the way that Ford does. This means you get a smoother-running engine—the finest V-8 in Ford's 25 years of V-8 leadership.

These are only a few of the important hidden values that are yours in the new kind of Ford. But they indicate why so many people who can pay almost any price for a car—people who have driven expensive cars for years—are buying Ford today. Action Test this great performing car at your Ford Dealer's just once and you too, will ask, "Pay more... what for?"

YOU CAN SPEND HUNDREDS MORE... BUT YOU CAN'T BUY BETTER THAN THE NEW KIND OF FORD

Lewis-McLarty Men's Dept. Remodeled Entirely

The Success Story Of the Year

DALLAS, Texas — Some folks might call the Herman Marcus Company's success a miracle that happened in Dallas. Because the facts are that this firm introduced their first line in January, and after three months, figures prove they shipped the equivalent of their first year's estimated volume.

This, however, was not a miracle or a streak of luck but the combined brainchild of a group of the nation's top men in the ladies dress field. So, that one could understand, it would be necessary to know the depth of power within the personalities behind this firm. President Herman Marcus has been noted for his genius in the ladies ready-to-wear industry for a long time. Being a bit ambidextrous, he not only was successful in wholesale selling, but at the same time carried on important retail operations in some of the nation's leading cities. His ability to perceive what the consumer wanted qualified him for this amazing position in the wholesale and retail field.

Another partner, Jack Ginsberg, whose talent has had a tremendous impact on the firm's success, is a production expert. His name has long been identified throughout the country in the ladies ready-to-wear industry with two words,

"better made" garments.

Two other partners are Sam Karmens, executive vice-president, and Arnold Ross, vice-president, whose attention will be focused on sales, as well as styling. Both of these men have become well known throughout the nation for their successful sales records. Other members of the staff are: Hubert Behrman, general sales manager, and Carl Blitzer who will emphasize sales in the southeast.

The impeccable good taste in designing with expert workmanship and quality fabrics produced a value packed garment from the start. There were no mistakes, no fumbles; the line was produced by experts and the business conducted in this manner. Deliveries were excellent as a result of three perfectly equipped factories, each of which was in operation before the line was introduced to retailers. This again can be attributed to vision and cautious planning by men with knowledge.

Mr. Marcus' motto has always been "to give women dresses with the $75 look at prices from $18.00 to $25.00," and this is certainly witnessed in the new '57 fall and winter line. The tremendous reception from retailers indicates one thing that merchandise priced right, styled right, fitted right and delivered as promised will always

This photo was shot from the front of the store on the men's side with dress slacks in the immediate foreground. On the left is shown a partial section of the dress shirts, sport shirts, men's underwear and sock department. In the back of the picture is, of course, the newly remodeled shoe department. Over to the right, and going straight on back, are men's hats, ties, belts and handkerchiefs. The door shown opens into a new dressing room. Past the door are men's suits, sport coats and jackets. In the center aisle are more sport shirts, slacks, khaki shirts and pants and blue jeans.

Faubus Won't Say Why Guard Called

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. — Gov. Orval Faubus repeatedly refused to say directly today that he had ordered National Guardsmen to prevent Negro students from entering Central High School.

At the best attended news conference since he took office, Faubus was asked again and again about that point.

His reply always was that he had ordered out the guard to maintain "peace and order" and that whatever action was necessary was up to the discretion of the guard commander.

At one point, however, Faubus did say that he doubted that guardsmen would escort Negro students into the school if any attempted to enter.

"You know how Arkansas feel and the guardsmen are no exception," Faubus said. At another point, he said that the guardsmen were there to protect all citizens.

Posse Tracks Down AWOL Sailor

ST. GEORGE, Utah (AP) — A posse tracked down James B. Granger in the arid hills of southwest Utah and the 19-year-old sailor from Phoenix, Ariz., was held in jail today in connection with the molesting of a doctor and his wife who had pulled off U.S. $1 to take a nap.

Mrs. Isidore Matitsky, about 45, of Norwalk, Calif., was shot in the chest. She underwent surgery for removal of the bullet and was reported in good condition.

The all-day manhunt started when Dr. Matitsky drove into St. George at 5 a.m. Monday seeking medical help for his wife.

He said they were awakened by a gunman who demanded their car. When they refused to unlock the doors, the gunman shouted "I'll kill you," and fired into the car. Dr. Matitsky jumped behind the wheel, shielding himself with a pillow, and managed to drive away.

Possemen tracked Granger to the Santa Clara river. He had been come so thirsty and drunk so much water he could barely move. Sheriff Roy Renard said the sailor told him he was AWOL from the carrier Saratoga.

Rebel Campaign in Cuba Is Resumed

HAVANA (UP) — The rebel campaign of "creeping terror," resuming after nearly a month of uneasy peace in the principal cities of Cuba, injured six men and two women during the weekend. The casualties were caused by a time bomb set off in the bar of the Hotel Comodoro, in the suburbs of Havana. Three other bombs exploded in rebel-infested Santiago, but caused no reported casualties or serious damage. Damage caused the pipes in an earlier bombing deprived the Santiago suburb of Merlano de la Torre of water.

Meanwhile, two leading opposition politicians were in the hands of the police today. Informed sources said their arrest was a symptom of a growing split in anti-government ranks in Cuba's revolution. They were Raul Chibas and Roberto Agramonte Jr.

Quits Rich Movie Job-- New Job Paid Much Better

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Most writers dream of turning out a novel they can sell to Hollywood and become rich.

Dale Van Every, a top authority on America's early frontier, did it the other way. He quit a $75,000-a-year job in Hollywood in 1943 to become a historical novelist.

"I was making $1,500 a week—which made me a working picture writer, not a celebrity," he remarked drily. "My only regret now is that I didn't quit sooner."

Van Every, now 51, has written six novels—the most recent, "The Voyagers"—since he turned his back on Hollywood, where he worked on some 100 pictures after an earlier career as a "newsman" here and in Washington, D. C. The novels have sold more than two million copies.

One of the ironies of his success as a novelist is that some critics, aware of his Hollywood background, feel his books have been written with an eye for the film market. Van Every says that actually the exact opposite is true.

"None of my novels have been sold to the movies," he pointed out. "I use fiction only as a kind of sugar-coating for the facts. It is the facts that interest me."

"My pleasure in writing is the delight in recreating a lost world—the period between 1780 and 1811, when America really became a nation."

"Everyone knows about the frontier of the later West—the covered wagon, the stage coach, the cowboy and the horse Indian."

"But even the college professors don't know too much about the earlier West, the frontier east of the Mississippi — the West of the stockade, the flatboat, the long rifle, the time when the Indians outnumbered and were stronger than the white settlers and won every battle except the last one."

Van Every, whose grandfather's grandfather was a Tory fighter in the Revolution, has been interested in this little-known period since boyhood. Thanks to his profitable years in the Hollywood vineyard, he was able to assemble one of the nation's finest private historical libraries.

A methodical craftsman, he writes five drafts of each novel, sometimes spends three or four days checking to be sure he has a detail of frontier life exactly right.

"Newspaper training is the best for anyone learning to write," he said. "It teaches you a respect for facts, and how to find and use them."

As a result of his interminable research Van Every lards his novels with such interesting facts as why Indians dubbed a captive's head with clay before burning him at the stake. It was to preserve the scalp. Indians rarely violated a white female captive in order to preserve their own purity. Indians used crushed sunflower seeds for hair oil. Indians regarded as delicacies the eye balls of the buffalo, and the frags cooked whole in cornmeal gruel.

"They also enjoyed moose snout, boiled dog's head, and turkey eggs, eaten the day before they were due to hatch," added Van Every, who is a steak man himself. The novelist recently sold his

Angry Crowd Throws Rocks at Sturgis

STURGIS, Ky., Sept. 3 (INS) — An angry crowd of almost 1,000 white persons today heckled and threw rocks at 18 Negro students who enrolled in the all-white high school at Sturgis.

The crowd had swelled from a morning crowd of 300 to three times that size by the time school was dismissed at noon as planned.

The angry adults were joined by most of the 800 white students as soon as registration was completed and the mob then heckled and threw rocks at the five cars which carried the Negroes from the school.

No one was injured seriously, but the rear window of one of the cars was knocked out the panel on all of the cars was scratched and chipped.

Five carloads of state police battled to keep the mob in check. School authorities said "It could have been worse," but added there were rumors that FBI agents and U. S. marshals were in the area and people were afraid of being arrested for breaking a federal in-home in Santa Barbara, Calif., and plans to spend a year or two wandering the world with his wife. "I'm too young to settle down," he said.

junction ordering integration at the high school.

Sturgis was the scene of similar demonstrations last year when nine Negroes were enrolled. Finally, the National Guard was called out to quell the rioters and the Negroes obtained a federal court injunction in Owensboro, Ky., making integration compulsory this year.

The angry mob, besides jeering at the Negroes, taunted the white teachers inside the building to come out.

Two women teachers left about the same time as the Negroes. One of the teachers, Ruby McIntire, an elderly spinster, was grabbed by some men who angrily threatened to put her in the Negroes' car.

Miss McIntire shrugged off the threat and continued to walk down the street to her home.

Photographers and newsmen at the scene also were pelted with pop bottles and rocks.

No one was arrested and there was no indication that school would be closed Wednesday.

Rumors were rife that National Guard troops would be moved in Wednesday, as they were in Little Rock, Ark., to maintain order.

However, at Frankfort, Ky., Harry Davis, Gov. A. B. (Happy) Chandler's secretary, said:

"As far as we know, the Negro students were enrolled and State Police are keeping order. There is no move about to send the National Guard to Sturgis."

Meanwhile, 30 Negro students were enrolled in two grade schools in Henderson, Ky. No incident was reported.

There were reports that four Negroes would attempt to enroll Wednesday at the high school in Morganfield, Ky., 12 miles north of Sturgis.

Fox Lot Shot in Arm to Filmland

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, N.Y. — The biggest shot in the arm for the ailing film industry has been 20th Century-Fox's full production policy.
At a time when other studios have made no pictures in months (RKO, Republic and others are limping along with scant filming), the Fox lot has been jumping. I caught up with production boss
Buddy Adler to see how he manages to battle the trend.

The white-haired, handsome executive was visiting one of the sets on his bustling lot. A graduate of magazines and movie shorts, he is the successful producer "From Here to Eternity," who succeeded Darryl Zanuck as headman.

The secret, he indicated, is youthful enthusiasm.
"You've got to have excitement for this business to make good pictures," he said. "The ones who are doing important things are mainly the newcomers. They're discovering new things and trying new approaches. Many of the veterans who have made their mint are tired and slowing down."

Standing in front of the new Bag department, the camera make a wide sweep of the ladies side looking toward the entrance.
On the left are shelves containing hosiery, lingerie and accessories.
In the glass cases are lingerie of all types and the cosmetic bar at the front of the store. In the center of the picture is a portion of children's anklets, piece goods extending all the way to the front of the store with the notions' counter tying in with this department. To the right may be seen, in the shelves, bed spreads, piece goods, sheets, cases, towels and linens. On the ledge are displayed blankets and piece goods in an attractive array.

For that reason, he said, he's bringing newcomers into the production end. Significantly, most of them are writers.

"I have great faith in writers," said Adler, who was one himself. "They are the really indispensable creators in this business.
Even the greatest of directors can't make a great picture unless he has a great script."

Adler reported that he has delivered 30 pictures as this year's product and is now working on films for 1958. The success of his program is indicated by an 80 per cent jump in receipts.

In the Adler future book are some hot properties, including at least two blockbusters. One is "Peyton Place," which will run three hours and may be released as a roadshow. The other is the third of the studio's Rodgers and Hammerstein musicals, "South Pacific."

The executive feels that the rest of the film industry is awakening and starting to follow Fox's example. "I find the others are beginning to outbid me for story properties," he said.

Ike Kills Loan to Veterans Deal

WASHINGTON, N.Y. — President
Eisenhower today killed legislation to extend and expand a direct loan program for veterans housing in rural areas and small communities.

In announcing a pocket veto of the measure, Eisenhower said it would have "a potential inflationary effect upon the economy." He also termed the proposed program
"discriminatory."

Because Congress already has adjourned, the President's memorandum of disapproval has the effect of killing the bill.

"What the proposed legislation seeks to do is to make substantial amounts of additional mortgage funds available by providing for direct government loans at interest rates well below the current market," Eisenhower said in his memorandum.

New York state's forests are now growing 103 per cent more wood than is cut and lost each year.

Circus performing tigers, which once cost $1,000 each, now cost up to $3,500. Inflation probably.

The meat of a hippopotamus is good to eat, tasting something like beef. Plenty for leftovers.

U. S. Trouble Shooter Is Grounded

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP)—State Department trouble-shooter Loy Henderson was grounded by the troubles of an ordinary, non-diplomatic traveler today.

With no room available on flight to Washington, his survey of Syria's recent pro-Soviet swing was extended to a 12th day.

The deputy undersecretary of state has used the unexpected extension of his tour to continue conversations with Premier Adnan Menderes, whom he saw Sunday night for the fourth time, and U. S. Ambassador Fletcher Warren.

Henderson arrived here Sunday from Beirut eager to report in Washington on his talks with Middle East leaders and U. S. ambassadors.

There was no indication when he would be able to get reservations taking him home without a stopover.

A Moscow broadcast said last night that the Washington envoy had been forced to end his tour because of "aroused public indignation in Egypt, Syria and other Arab countries." Henderson was recalled to prevent further Arab discontent, the broadcast claimed. Syrian Foreign Minister Salah Bitar, at a press conference in Damascus, criticized Henderson because he had not come to Syria to learn about the situation on the spot. He said the governments of the countries the American visited—Turkey and Lebanon—were "inspired by the policy of alignment with the West that they've chosen."

"The situation of Syria cannot be learned except in Syria," he asserted. Syria extended no formal invitation to Henderson, although several officials said he would be welcome if he cared to come to Damascus.

In Jerusalem, Foreign Minister Golda Meir said Israel is entirely anxious over the Syrian swing to the left, increasing amounts of Soviet arms are moving into Syria and Russian technicians are going with them, she told the Foreign Press Assn.

The name of Cairo is derived from its original El Qahira, or "The Victorious."

Another View of Lewis-McLarty Ladies Dept.

This wide angle view is the reverse shot of the picture on the opposite page, featuring the ladies' side of the store. On the extreme left are showcases containing linens, a cash register and wrapping counter, and the bookkeeper's office. Starting again from the front of the store, the picture shows a portion of the jewelry case, behind it in the center aisle, piece goods on counters, on back to the children's wear, sportswear for women and at the back of the store, a well planned, display and organized Ready-to-Wear. Coming up the right side is children's ready-to-wear, the archway allowing customers convenient access to both sides of the store, with the new bag department stationed there, and lingerie and hosiery in the shelves.

Women Deny Stories in Confidential

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 3 (INS)—Two indignant women, actress Maureen O'Hara and singer Dorothy Dandridge, testified today that there was no truth in Confidential magazine stories about their alleged romantic escapades.

The red-haired Miss O'Hara became the first movie star to take the witness stand at her criminal libel trial of Confidential and a Whisper magazine. She denied emphatically that she ever "cuddled" in a movie theater with a Latin boy friend as charged in a Confidential story.

The fragile, light-voiced Miss Dandridge was equally emphatic as she followed Miss O'Hara on the witness stand and said a Confidential story about her was "absolutely untrue."

The story was entitled "Only the birds and bees saw what Dorothy Dandridge did in the woods."

Miss O'Hara, her green eyes flashing, testified that the story in Confidential hurt her career since she hasn't had a call for work since it was published.

In repeated questioning about Grauman's Chinese theater where the incident was supposed to have taken place, Miss O'Hara said she had never gone to the Hollywood landmark except in the company of her brothers or her mother.

Miss Dandridge was questioned at length by both prosecution and defense on the Confidential story about her which stated she had indulged in a romantic escapade with band leader Dan Terry at Lake Tahoe, California resort, while she had a singing engagement there.

She testified she had never had any social contact with Terry, never walked in the woods with him and never took an automobile ride with him.

Miss Dandridge sued the magazine after the story appeared and received a $10,000 settlement, but during testimony at the libel trial a New York attorney for Confidential insisted the story was true. He said the payment was made to avoid expensive litigation.

Miss Dandridge waited in the wings to testify at the trial after Miss O'Hara completed her appearance in a general denial.

Miss O'Hara testified she was in Europe making a movie when the magazine said she "cuddled" in row 35 of Grauman's Chinese with a Latin and showed passport and other records to prove it.

The prosecution called Miss O'Hara, first film star to be summoned to the witness box in the prolonged trial, after the jury of six men and six women had traveled across town to the theater to see where the alleged "cuddling" was said to have occurred.

Under direct examination by prosecutor William Ritzel, the actress testified that she had been in Grauman's only twice, once to see the premiere of "The Robe" in September 1953, and another time "quite recently" when she went with her mother.

But under cross-examination by defense attorney Arthur J. Crowley the pale, firm-jawed actress said that she went to the premiere of "Prince Valiant" and believed that was in the spring of 1954. Crowley then asked if she wished to change her earlier testimony, and Miss O'Hara said:

"If the premiere of Prince Valiant was held at that time, I was there."

She said she went to both premieres with her brothers Charles and Thomas, an attorney in London.

The actress, icy calm, maintained her composure when Crowley asked if she had "dated a Mexican" during February of 1954.

She replied slowly:

"I have very many good friends who are Mexicans. I don't know what you mean by dating."

Crowley defined the term as "going out socially."

Miss O'Hara paused again and then answered:

"Yes, I have gone out socially with a Mexican."

The defense attorney asked her to name the man, and she replied that he was Enrique Parra, a wealthy Mexico City businessman. She testified that she had "never" gone to Grauman's Chinese theater with Parra, however.

In 1955, Miss O'Hara's divorced husband, movie director Will Price, filed an affidavit in a custody battle over their 13-year old daughter, Bronwyn Bridget, in which he accused the actress of "openly consorting and living with" Parra. Price's suit was later withdrawn.

Superior Judge Herbert V. Walker acted as usher in this morning's tour of Grauman's Chinese theater as the jurors picked up background material on a Confidential story entitled, "It was the hottest show in town when Maureen O'Hara cuddled in row 35."

The tour was made an official part of the court record.

Shrimp Fleet Is Back in Action

FREEPORT, Tex. (AP)—The Freeport shrimping fleet went back to work today.

Some 300 fishing boats were blessed yesterday by the Rev. Thomas J. Prendergast at the annual "Blessing of the Fleet," an ancient custom still observed in several Texas ports.

An estimated 4,000 persons attended the shrimp boil and fish fry and watched the colorfully decorated work craft compete for prizes for the best decorations.

Search Fails to Produce Clues

CHICAGO (UP)—An intensive land and underwater search for clues in the torso slaying of Judith Mae Andersen, 15, has failed to turn up any tangible evidence, police admitted today.

More than 500 policemen combing the Northwest Side of Chicago where Judith Mae disappeared Aug. 16 have uncovered only a few new leads which authorities said bear further investigation.

And some 100 skin divers searching the bottom of a Lake Michigan harbor where the victim's dismembered torso was found floating in an oil drum Aug. 22 have found

Pattie Page Doesn't Want to Be Feuding

By WILLIAM GLOVER

NEW YORK (AP)—Pattie Page, a blonde bundle of song, doesn't want to go feudin' and fightin' with anyone.

Miss Page, debutting soon as star of a new hour-long television show "The Big Record," is determined to avoid such customary aspects of seeking major video attention.

"I haven't even thought about ratings," she avers. "After all, you've just got to make up your mind that you never are going to be able to please just everybody."

Because a major trend of TV planning this season, along with cowboy shows, is the boom in shows spotlighting popular singers, Pattie realizes that public tiffing with one or more rivals might appear to be inevitable.

"I'm not mad at anybody and I'm not going to be," says the lady of "Tennessee Waltz" and "Doggie in the Window" fame.

"I'm not even sure I'd want to get to be the top show in the ratings," she adds, "because then it seems you've just got to get in a feud."

Aside from such factors, Miss Page glows enthusiastically over "The Big Record" which takes over the CBS-TV network Wednesday evenings from 8 to 9 p.m. (EDT) starting Sept. 10.

The show, stressing great names of the disc-making industry in person each week, will have Pattie introducing an average of nine guests per outing.

Channel chatter: NBC's planning department reports 278 stations in the U. S. are now equipped to telecast in color, a six-month increase of 21. "The Seven Lively Arts" will get underway on CBS-TV Nov. 3 with an hour-long discussion of "the changing a mound of objects, but none connected with the Andersen case.

The skin divers, hampered Monday by choppy waters, planned to continue their probe of their harbor bottom today, Monday, they brought up five flashlights, a neck saw and three pairs of sun glasses, all of which are being studied by crime laboratory scientists. Police still are seeking the .32 caliber pistol from which four bullets were fired into the girl's head, the victim's clothing and the ax or saw used to dismember her body.

"There's nothing new, but the investigation is continuing," police officials said.

More than 100,000 automobiles are now being ferried across the English channel by British railway steamers annually, three times the traffic before World War 2.

Sees Defense Against Missile

WASHINGTON (UP) — Germany's World War II missile chief says a defense against the intercontinental ballistic missile is possible.

Former German missile chief Walter Dornberger, now a missile design consultant for Bell Aircraft, was the second missile expert in two days to say that the so-called ultimate weapon may not be ultimate after all.

Gen. Earle E. Partridge, head of the North American Air Defense Command, said the ICBM can be stopped with an "anti-missile missile."

Partridge said in an interview with the weekly news magazine U.S. News World Report, as ICBM defense could call for long-range radar to detect the enemy ICBM and a system of radar to dispatch the anti-missile missile.

"This stretches my imagination," he said, "but that's what they scientists say can be done, and we have to get along with building such a system and do it as quickly as possible."

Dornberger said in the Army-Navy Air Force Register, unofficial service publication, "a defense should not be too difficult."

Both Partridge and Dornberger made the statements before Russia announced last week that it had developed and successfully tested an ICBM.

Dornberger said speed alone would not guarantee that an ICBM would reach its target. He then went on to outline a defense against ballistic rockets after noting that they have a "very short burning time" during which they are guided.

"When you know where they come from, on what flight path, where they will hit, you just send something against it to collide with it on its way down. You let the ICBM run into it."

Japan is the world's leading producer of fishery product with 17 percent of the world's catch.

Cool Air, Rain in Part of U. S.

By United Press
Cool air and occasional severe thunderstorms advanced across the Midwest and into the Northeast today, routing a late summer heat wave.
Showers and thunderstorms ahead of the cooler air dumped an average one-fourth inch of rain during the night along a line from New York state through Ohio. A freak storm at Columbus, Ohio, Monday night, whipped a private airfield with 80 m.p.h. winds and blew one plane into the roof of a home and damaged five other planes.

Another of the damaged planes as blown against power and telephone lines, blacking out an area southeast of Columbus.
Numerous thunderstorms also occurred during the night from Arkansas through Texas. A severe storm at Chilton, Tex., disrupted power in the area but caused no injuries.
Overnight temperatures dipped into the 60s in the cool air extending from the Dakotas through the Great Lakes and south through Missouri and Oklahoma.

School Board Wants More Instructions

LITTLE ROCK Sept. 3 (AP)—The Little Rock School Board asked for further instructions from Federal District Court today as a token force of National Guardsmen remained on duty at the orders of Gov. Orval Faubus.
In an apparent countermove to Faubus' action in calling out the troops to keep Negroes from attending Central High School, the board asked that it be exempted from "any charge of contempt." The board also wanted to know if it should recall a statement issued last night informing Negro students that they should not attempt to attend Central High.
The petition, filed by attorney Archie House, said he heard had conformed with a federal court order, issued Friday, until the governor placed guardsmen around the school and then publicly stated he thought the school should continue to operate on the same basis as it had in the past.

A hearing on the petition was set for later tonight.

There was no official comment from officials of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People.
Only white students were admitted to classes and Faubus said his action "possibly could develop into a Southwide test."

In Washington, President Eisenhower told his news conference that Atty. Gen. Brownell was looking into the Little Rock situation to find out what happened.

Although the governor repeatedly denied that he was attempting to prevent racial mixing, the Little Rock School Board interpreted Faubus' action as designed to maintain segregation. School authorities directed nine Negroes who were to enter Central High to stay away, but not to enroll in a Negro school.

There was no indication from federal authorities or from Negro leaders as to what action was contemplated to break the impasse.

Faubus contended that he had called out troops only to maintain "peace and order" and that his action was not one of interposition; nor was it one of "open defiance" to the federal court order under which the school board was proceeding with its plan for gradual integration.

Maj. Gen. Sherman T. Clinger, Arkansas adjutant general, indicated he thought the presence of guardsmen had forestalled any acts of violence.

At dawn a crowd of whites began to form on the school grounds and at its height numbered approximately 500.

Generally the crowd was quiet and orderly, making only occasional demonstrations.

The crowd loudly applauded when a teen-aged boy unfurled a Confederate flag and a few rebel yells were heard.

There was applause again after the U.S. flag was raised on the staff in front of the school. A student, standing beside 10 armed guardsmen, blew a bugle and the grimaced soldiers presented arms.

By noon the crowd had dwindled to less than 50.

Guardsmen and state troopers began taking their positions late last night. By daylight, a long

Labor Groups to Fight Any Punish Laws

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two AFL-CIO leaders, renewing pledges to clear their unions of corruption, say they will fight any effort to punish the entire labor movement through restrictive new laws.

That determination was expressed in broadest Labor Day speeches yesterday by AFL-CIO President George Meany and by Al Hays, president of the Machinists Union and chairman of the AFL-CIO's Ethical Practices Committee.

And in a radio interview, Rep. McCormack (D-Mass.), his port's House floor leader, said he favors legislation to protect welfare trust funds "but I will not favor legislation that will be punitive in nature and repressive against labor."

All referred to testimony before a special Senate committee investigating improper labor management practices. That group has line of military vehicles, armored half-tracks and trucks, lined the street in front of the two-block long school building. State police routed motor traffic away from the area, but permitted persons on foot to enter.

At one time there were 270 guardsmen and 88 state troopers on duty in addition to an undisclosed number of plain clothesmen.

As the crowd dwindled, the number of guardsmen was reduced to only a "token force."

Inside the school, classes were termed "about normal."

At least nine Negroes had been expected to enter Central High, joining some 2,000 white students.

Faubus, who had related reports of an intensive telephone campaign to enlist whites for an assembly on the school grounds and of motor caravans converging on the city, said the soldiers' presence was demanded to protect property.

Integration at Van Buren Quiet

VAN BUREN, Sept. 3 (AP)—Racial integration began quietly in this West Arkansas city today. Twenty-three Negroes began attending classes with hundreds of white students in Van Buren High School.

A newsmen said that a few adults were at the school when they appeared to be parents waiting to take their children to lunch.

A few Negro first graders are scheduled to be integrated in nearby Fort Smith, the state's second largest city, tomorrow.

The station in Van Buren and Fort Smith, located on opposite sides of the Arkansas River, was in sharp contrast to the racial problem at Little Rock, 130 miles to the east, where National Guardsmen were called out and integration was cancelled.

charged several union officials with diverting union funds to their own uses and with other malpractices.

Meany promised full AFL-CIO cooperation in exposure of any corruption.

"We don't, of course, have police powers," he said. "We cannot subpoena witnesses or bank records. But we can and we will expel from our ranks organizations that are found by public investigatory bodies to be substantially influenced in the conduct of their affairs by corrupt elements or individuals."

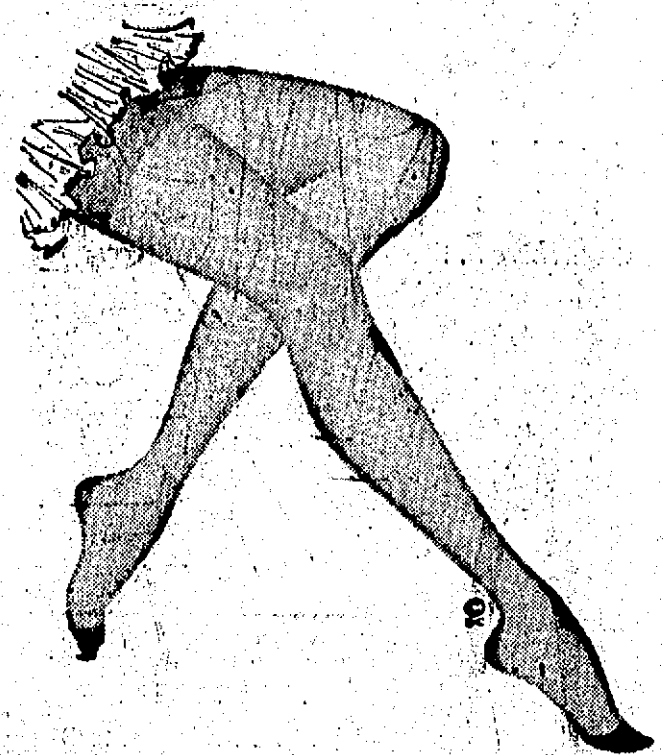

"But let me make it crystal clear," he added, "that the AFL-CIO will fight to the last ditch against any attempt by enemies of labor in Congress to capitalize on the investigation for the purpose of fastening further restrictive legislation upon the entire trade union movement."

Hays likewise promised cooperation, saying that although there is some graft and corruption in the labor movement just as in business and industry, the overwhelming majority of officers and members is honest and responsible.

"Not only will we rid ourselves of corruption," Hays said, "but we will also defeat those who are attempting to use corruption as a club to beat us to death."

McCormack, interviewed on the CBS Capitol Clinkroom program, predicted the next session of Congress will change the Taft-Hartley labor law.

Miss America Contest Now Underway

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (UP) — The nation's foremost beauty contest, the Miss America pageant, begins today with 51 talented beauties vying for the title of "Miss America 1938" and the multitude of prizes that go with it.

Preliminary peeks at the home folks choices from 45 states, three major cities, two territories and Canada indicated it would take the mirror of Snow White's step-mother to determine who is the fairest of them all.

From this point on, every minute of every waking hour will be plotted for the young misses. The hectic pace began this morning with the bathing suit picture, posing along the colonnades outside Convention Hall, the traditional grouping of the girls which has graced as many saloon windows as Custer's last stand.

The first of the dazzling performances — with no slight meant to the bathing suit appearance — takes place tonight when the girls participate in the American beauty illuminated parade.

In all, 29 floats and 25 bands will be in the line of march with the footloosers including the Charleston, W. Va., high school band and the band of gold from Luman, S.C., a subtle reminder that last year's Miss America was a South Carolina girl.

Final Rites for Florida Confederate

CRESTVIEW, Fla. (UP) — Taps, the soldier's requiem, will sound tomorrow for William A. Lundy, Florida's last Confederate veteran and one of only three in the nation.

Lundy died Saturday night at the age of 103. The news brought expressions of regret and a peppy boast of personal vitality from one other onetime wearer of the Gray—Walter Williams, 114, of Houston, Tex.

Williams had a 103-degree fever yesterday but said of Lundy's death "I am sorry to hear it. His family has my sympathy and that of my family."

Then Williams predicted he would be the last survivor of the War Between the States. He vowed he would "still outlive the other one" — John Salling, 111, of Slant, Va.

The last wearer of the Blue, Albert Woolson of Duluth, Minn., a onetime Union Army drummer boy, died in 1936.

Lundy will be buried with full military honors. A U.S. Army chaplain will officiate at services at the First Baptist Church here, and an Army honor guard will provide final ceremonies. Burial will be in Laurel Hill, 20 miles north of this west Florida town.

Lundy, born near Troy, Ala., was 16 when he served with the Home Guard at Elba, Ala., during the last days of the war. Until he underwent a gall bladder operation last March he remained active and boasted he could still

Showers Fall on Parts of State

By The United Press
Showers fell on parts of Arkansas yesterday for the second straight day, and still more were predicted for the south portion through Wednesday.

The forecast for the remainder of the state the central and north portions—called for partly cloudy skies and mild this afternoon, tonight and Wednesday. Highs today will be in the mid 80's to low 90's, and lows tonight in the upper 60's to upper 70's.

Thursday will continue partly cloudy and mild throughout the state.

The high in Arkansas yesterday was 95 degrees at Camden, and this morning 59 at Gilbert.

Rain was reported yesterday at Benton, Gurdon, Marshall, Blytheville, Fayetteville, Pine Bluff, Eureka Springs and Devil's Knob.

At 11 a.m. today skies had cleared at Walnut Ridge, Flippin, Fayetteville and Fort Smith. Remained cloudy at El Dorado, and partly cloudy at Texarkana, Little Rock and Memphis.

Temperatures included 69 at Little Rock, 67 at Memphis, 62 at El Dorado, 53 at Walnut Ridge, and Fayetteville, 84 at Flippin and Texarkana, and 85 at Fort Smith.

draw a bead on a squirrel with his old shotgun.

He never fully recovered from the effects of his gall bladder illness and died in a hospital where he was taken Saturday night with a high fever.

He is survived by six sons and three daughters.

The Pendleton Story

Pendleton purchases its own raw wool in order to control, from the very beginning, Pendleton quality. Buying only the very finest wools of the West, Pendleton assures you and your customers of uniformity of quality upon which the foundation of Pendleton reputation is built.

Pendleton scours and dyes its own wool as the only perfect means of achieving rich, lasting, distinctively Pendleton colors. Crystalline Northwest mountain streams provide cleaner scouring waters and most ideal dyeing conditions. Only the finest dyes are used and rigidly controlled in formula to insure the lasting quality of all Pendleton colors.

Pendleton spins its own woolen yarn for even size and tensile strength. Yarn thus spun can be controlled to combine just the right softness and high wearing quality, hallmarks of Pendleton wools. Only in this way can constant quality be maintained, unvarying from garment to garment and year to year.

Pendleton weaves its own fine fabrics in distinctly original Pendleton patterns and authentic Scotch tartans of pure virgin wool. . . still another quality safeguard because this crucial manufacturing step is under Pendleton's expert control.

Pendleton designs and tailors its garments as the final step in bringing to your customers the kind of quality merchandise they have come to always expect from the label, Pendleton. From the raw wool Pendleton buys to the finishing tailoring touches on all Pendleton sportswear fashions, the Pendleton story of how quality is created is as unchanging as Pendleton quality itself. Pendleton jackets, skirts and sweaters are now featured in Hope by Lewis-McLarty.

Graham Quits N. Y. But Plans to Return

NEW YORK (AP) — Billy Graham has gone back home to North Carolina after his record-setting 38-month New York crusade, but he will return soon for more evangelistic work in the metropolitan area.

He plans to come back to New York Sept. 24 to address a breakfast meeting of New York City clergymen. He will be here again to end a week of Evangelism Oct. 27 at the Polo Grounds. The evangelist also plans a few meetings in the vicinity of New York in October.

A hushed and reverent throng stretched for blocks near the Crossroads of the World as loud-speakers carried Graham's plea to seek Christ.

Gospel hymns echoed through the streets before and after Graham preached from a speakers platform. Thousands of hands waved in the dusk, as Graham called for "decisions for Christ."

Traffic was stopped for the evening meeting, but in the surrounding area, business went on as usual in the theaters, bars and restaurants.

Noting that Times Square "is primarily a place of amusement, money making, drinking, eating and merry-making," Graham told the crowd: "Tonight for a few moments it is being turned into a great cathedral as a symbol of the spiritual revival that is now in progress in the United States. Let us tell the whole world tonight that we, Americans believe in God."

Graham held his last Madison Square Garden meeting Saturday night with a capacity crowd of 19,200. More than 7,000 more were outside.

Disagreement continues over the size of the crowd at the Times Square meeting.

In addressing the meeting, Graham said it had never "been my privilege to speak to 200,000 before."

Chief Inspector Thomas A. Nielson of the Police Department estimated the crowd at 75,000.

Graham said in a statement later: "Before I went on the rostrum I was told that the attendance was over 200,000. Certainly anyone present knows that it was far more than the police estimate. 'I doubt that anyone will ever know exactly how many were present, but I am certain that it was the biggest crowd it has been my privilege to address.'"

Yesterday, Jerry Beavan, Graham's executive secretary, said the 75,000 police estimate was "ridiculous."

But Deputy Police Commissioner Walter Arm, in charge of the department's community relations said, "It was a generous estimate."

Beavan said: "Anybody who was either present or saw it on television realizes that Inspector Nielson guessed at the figure."

Asked what the figure was, Beavan declared: "We say there were more than 120,000."

"We never said 200,000. We said we were informed by newspapermen and representatives from some of the other media that the crowd was 200,000."

He variance in the figures raised the question of how such crowd estimates are arrived at. Both the police and Graham's organization have had large experience in estimating crowds.

Arm said, "The police arrived at their figures through years of experience — 75,000."

Arm said it had been estimated that a Broadway block would hold up to 10,000 persons, occupying 2.5 square feet each. "We generally figure 8,000 a block," he said. He added that Nielson arrived at his estimate on this basis.

Beavan explained how he arrived at his figure.

"Last Wednesday," he said, "we arranged groups of people in varying degrees of compactness, averaged out the amount of square feet of space that one person occupies when standing in a close crowd."

"We went down with tape measures and measured the streets, sidewalks and intersections. We could compute exactly how many people could be there."

Asked why this measuring was done, Beavan said: "That morning (Wednesday), we were told at a morning meeting in the West 54th Street police station that if a city block were packed solid with

Prove Popularity

Roman coins unearthed at the medicinal springs of Bañerrio de Panticosa, high in the Pyrenees, prove that this resort was popular in the first century.

Highest Vs. Lowest

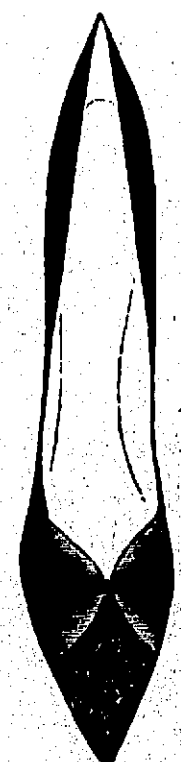

Michigan's highest point, one of the peaks of the Porcupine Mountains in Ontonagon County, is only a few miles from the state's lowest point.

When Henry Ford died at the age of 83 in 1947, he left an estate valued at more than $500 million dollars.

people it would hold between 3,000 to 4,000.

"That same day another member of the crusade committee was down at police headquarters. He was told that city block packed solid would hold 8,000. We figured that if the police were so much at variance in their estimates, we should know exactly how many people could be accommodated."
